BRYAN HANDS RESIGNATION
TO PRESIDENT WILSON;
IMMEDIATELY ACCEPTEDDifferences of Opinion Regarding United States' Note
of Reprisal To Germany Is Cause of Break.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, 5 P. M. June 8.—Administration officials were thrown into a tremor of excitement here this afternoon when word was passed that Secretary of State, William Jennings Bryan had handed his resignation to President Wilson.

The President's secretary, Mr. Tumulty, made the formal announcement that Mr. Wilson had at once accepted the resignation. He further stated that a congenial feeling and excellent state of friendship continue to exist between the erstwhile secretary and the president.

Who Wilson's appointee to the vacancy will be is a matter of conjecture among administration leaders.

Mr. Bryan's resignation, it is authentically stated, is due to a matter of controversy between himself and Mr. Wilson over the text of the latest reprisal note of the United States to Germany on the sinking of the Lusitania. For several days trouble has been brewing between the president and his secretary of state and it has been openly hinted that the resignation would be short-coming.

Dispatches From Constantinople insist upon heavy British losses at Sedul Bahr.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Amsterdam, June 8.—There has been received here from Constantinople a dispatch from Turkish sources saying:

"Our artillery has destroyed an enemy position near Avl Burru at the Lardanelles from which bombs were being dropped. The neighboring trenches also were destroyed."

Claim Allies Are Exhausted.

"In the vicinity of Sedul Bahr the enemy, in a condition of exhaustion, has shown no further activity since his last unsuccessful attack."

"Our batteries on the Asiatic coast shelled the weary troops of the enemy in the neighborhood of Sedul Bahr yesterday."

"Two of the enemy's cruisers unsuccessfully shelled the village of Ximus opposite the island of Mytilene. Subsequently the enemy sent a steamer filled with soldiers to this point and attempted to remove some of the boats anchored there. Five were wrecked on the shore and the remainder of the vessel ran ashore, subsequently the cruiser retired."

Detail British Defeat.

Berlin, June 8.—Overseas News Agency reports the following:

"Constantinople gives further details of the severe British defeat at Sedul Bahr. The Turks repulsed the attack of their enemies back and captured large stores of arms and ammunition and took prisoners. The position of the British troops is dangerous. They are without support of the heavy guns of their ships and men are nervous and without spirit. Travelers report that at Alexandria, Egypt, there are no fewer than 40,000 wounded British soldiers."

Another Report.

The Overseas News Agency reports receiving a telegram from Constantinople saying the Turks repulsed the British attack at Sedul Bahr. Thousands of dead Englishmen crowd the beach. The Turks captured seventeen machine guns and ammunition and supplies.

The foregoing evidently refers to an engagement reported in an official statement issued Sunday at Constantinople. This statement announced a Turkish victory at Sedul Bahr, but gave no details.

London, June 8.—Reginald A. J. Wainwright, the young Canadian sub-lieutenant in the royal navy who yesterday in an airplane attacked and wrecked a Zeppelin dirigible over Belgium, today was given the Victoria cross.

King George sent the following telegram to him:

"Your splendid achievement of yesterday, in which you, single-handed, destroyed an enemy Zeppelin. I have much pleasure in conferring upon you the Victoria cross for this gallant act. (Signed) GEORGE R. L."

ANNAPOLIS SCANDAL
SUBJECT OF PROBE

Investigation Being Made Into System Organized to Give Students "Dope" on Examinations.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Annapolis, Md., June 8.—From the opening day testimony before the naval court of inquiries, detailed by Secretary Daniels to investigate the "doping" scandal at the naval academy, it was indicated that a "system" of supplying "dope," as advancing information on examinations is called in naval parlance, will be uncovered; also that this "system" has been in vogue for years, and many additional midshipmen may become involved.

Among the questions which the inquiry will try to solve are: "What instructor, if any, passed on information to the midshipmen?" A tutor was mentioned frequently in the testimony given before the academy inquiry.

Who made anonymous letters to James E. Moss, a member of the third class, containing certain information pertaining to the examination and routine work? These letters were received by young Moss from time to time, according to the testimony.

"Who broke into the department of modern languages and stole advanced copies of questions propounded for the examination in French and Spanish?" The academy investigating body in its findings, states that the questions were apparently stolen from the room of the department.

NEW RUSSIAN DEFEAT

Germans Are Reported to Have Dealt Another Stinging Blow to Slavs in the Baltic Provinces.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, June 8.—Virtually the entire western line of battle except those portions held by the Belgians and British, has been the scene of what would appear to be a series of offensive movements by the French. In the region of Arras, the French have entered the area of their attack while they are pressing all along the front from the angle of the Aisne and Oise in a northerly direction as far north as the British positions near La Basse, where the British forces are lying apparently quiet.

French Gaining Steadily.

For the last three weeks the French have been advancing slowly but steadily in the country immediately north of Arras. Here they met determined resistance from the formidable German works known as the La-Brynn, part of which, however, is now in their control. The French have been gathering in prisoners. At Hebuterne they have taken some four hundred and at Soissons 250 more. Desperate German counter-attacks have been made but without success and with terrible losses to the attackers. The German official announcement makes but brief reference to events on the western front, merely recording the repulses of French attacks.

Rivers Figure in Fighting.

Rivers figure more or less prominently today, in the report from both sides. From the eastern front the Russians claim to have pushed their offensive movement across the Pruth near Kolomea, while Petrograd has admitted the advance of the Austro-Germans across the river Dniester in Galicia. The river Dniester has been crossed five times in one day with the Russians finally in possession, and the scene of the most important Italian advance into Austrian territory.

German Victory Near Baltic.

A German victory almost as striking as that in Galicia is said in Berlin to have been won in the Baltic provinces which were invaded several weeks ago by the Germans. The Russian resistance is said to have been broken down. A Petrograd dispatch, however, asserts the Russians were victorious in a bitter battle of this campaign fought for control of the Dubysa river. It is said the fighting was so fierce and deadly that the river was choked with bodies of the dead.

CABINET AGAIN GOES OVER SECOND MESSAGE TO GERMAN GOVERNMENT WHICH IS NOW READY.

NO DELAY SAYS WILSON

President in Statement Emphasizes That Document Has Been Most Carefully and Expeditiously Considered.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, June 8.—The American rejoinder to the recent German reply concerning the sinking of the Lusitania is still in the hands of President Wilson today. It had been returned to him with some changes following a careful examination by government legal officials.

When the document will be forwarded was not definitely known early today. It was expected to be given further consideration at today's cabinet meeting.

Discussed Note.

After a two hours' discussion of the note at the cabinet meeting today, Secretary Tamm, at the direction of President Wilson, made this announcement:

"The note was gone over and discussed and put in final shape. It probably will go forward to Berlin tomorrow."

The cabinet members uniformly refused to discuss it.

President's Statement.

The president explained there has been no delay of any kind in the preparation of the note, that he had brought only a rough draft of it to the cabinet meeting Friday, and there had been all sorts of suggestions since the cabinet meeting.

The character of the document, however, he said, had not been changed, and he believed it had the approval of the entire staff.

Has Been No Delay.

"No one has held up the note," the president emphasized, "and the work on it is being expeditiously and carefully considered. The president today gave no inkling of its contents, believing that forecast might set up a misconception abroad of the American position. The arrival of the note from Germany offering to pay for the attack on the Gulfport and asking for the United States to consider the dropping of bombs on the German coast, referred to by the president as not unsatisfactory."

No Changes.

These two cases, however, do not affect the main principle for which the United States is contending—the Americans on unarmed merchant ships of every nationality shall be transferred to a place of safety before any prize is destroyed. The president said he learned only through the newspapers of the mission of Mr. Ghell Gelmeister, who arrived here in the interest of the neutral mediation in the European war.

PHILIPP HOLDS UP
MESSAGE ON HOBBY

Recommendations on Central Board of Education Bill Will Be Made Tomorrow.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., June 8.—Because the central board of education bill will not appear on the assembly calendar until Wednesday, Governor Philipp has decided to await the delivery of his message on that subject until tomorrow. It is said that the governor considers the central board of education plan the greatest single program of legislation which he has yet announced. For this reason he intends that this message shall fully cover the details of the bill, and show the immediate demand for combining the university and normal schools under a single management. The bill which he is advocating provides for a commissioner of education who shall perform duties independent of those of the state department. This portion of the governor's bill is meeting with the opposition of State Supt. C. P. Cary, who is more to "hamstring" the constitutional office of superintendent of public instruction.

TURN DOWN BUTCHERS' PRICES.

Petrograd, June 8.—As protest against the excessive and arbitrary raising of meat prices in Petrograd, a charitable committee headed by Mrs. M. L. Mekinska, wife of the Minister of the Interior, has declined to accept any further donations to charity by the meat exchange, or association of butchers, and to return to them $1,800 donated last fall for the establishment of twenty-five beds in the hospital of the ministry.

MADISON HAS NEW POLICE MATRON APPOINTED TODAY

Madison, June 8.—Mrs. Fannie C. Hamilton of the Associated Charities staff, last night was elected police matron, being the first woman police officer in Madison. Among her first duties will be to visit the public dance halls, public restaurants and moving picture theatres and to accompany women under arrest to court.

ACCUSED MURDERER TRIES TO END LIFE WHILE IN JAIL

Litchfield, Conn., June 8.—Isaac M. Williams, who is on trial here with Harry E. Rowe for the murder of County Commissioner Hubert B. Case last November, attempted suicide in his cell in the county jail during the night by cutting both wrists with a piece of glass.

WEBER BILL IS PASSED

Lay the Water Power Bill Over Until Thursday as Many Members of Assembly Were Absent Today.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Madison, June 8.—Due to the absence of so many members of the assembly today, the water power bill was laid over until Thursday. The assembly then revoked every leave of absence granted and directed the clerk to notify all absentees that they must be in their seats Thursday morning or the sergeant will be sent after them. The assembly killed the Freestock bill for repeal of the county park commission in Milwaukee and the senate bill which would have permitted several kinds of insurance to be written on one policy.

The Weber bill limiting the issuance of injunctions in labor disputes passed, and was sent to the senate, and the Huber bill to permit the settlement of estates within one year was concurred in after a motion by Assemblyman Hambrecht to kill the bill had failed.

The senate passed the following: Bossard—Appropriating $2,000 from the fish and game fund for enclosing a portion of the forest reserve for protection of native game.

Finance Committee—to reimburse state fair board members for expenses incurred for a suit brought by a victim of an aeroplane accident at the grounds.

Tompkins—A resolution for the distribution of the report of the special committee on investigation of the state tax commission.

The following bills were killed: Bichler—Providing for the filling of vacancies of income tax board of revenue by the tax commission from lists submitted by county boards.

Staudemeyer—Prohibiting temporary residents from voting at special elections.

The senate concurred in the Janesville bill authorizing the city of De Pere to build a dam across the Fox river.

The Baxter bill exempting the rental value of homesteads from income taxation was referred to the finance committee, which last week reported it for indefinite postponement.

A third reading was ordered by the senate for the number of assembly bills.

The senate adjourned until tomorrow.

GERMAN RAILROADS
THRIVE IN WAR TIME

Earnings for Last December Show But Four Percent Decrease as Compared With Year Previous.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Chicago, June 8.—The European war has had little financial effect on the German railroads, according to a statement issued by the Bureau of Railway News and Statistics today, despite the great curtailment of production designed for export.

December 1914, according to the statement, shows a loss of only 4% in freight earnings, compared with the previous December.

Alsace-Lorraine, where transportation has been especially restricted, the bureau says that the passenger earnings were 88% of the year before and freight earnings 98%.

Three Steamers Are Sunk By German Submarines in the North Sea—Under Sea Treachery Continues.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, June 8.—The Belgian steamer Memtier has been sent to the bottom by a German torpedo near the North Foreland. Out of twenty-three persons, only six were saved. The captain, his wife and daughter, the first mate and pilot and twelve members of the crew lost their lives.

The Belgian steamer Memtier was of 4,250 tons net and was 231 feet long. She was built in Sunderland in 1908 and owned in Antwerp.

Norwegians Lose Three.

The Norwegian vessels Trudvang and Superb have been sunk by German submarines. Another Norwegian steamer which was sunk is the Glitterad of 376 tons net. This vessel was built in 1913 and was 186 feet long.

The Trudvang was a steamer of 640 tons net register. She was built at Bergen in 1897, was 223 feet long and 32 feet beam. She was 13 feet deep.

The Superb was 1,333 tons. She was built in Glasgow in 1875. She sailed from Buenos Aires March 10 for Queenstown.

Tells of Sinking.

The Truvang was hailed by a German submarine soon after midday yesterday, when St. Anne's Head. The captain was ordered to bring his papers aboard the submarine, whose commander gave the crew 20 minutes to take to the boats. The submarine then sent 12 shells into the Truvang.

The shooting brought out a patrol boat from Milfordhaven, which picked up the skipper and taking thirteen men from the boats. During the operation the submarine attempted vainly to torpedo the patrol boat. The men from the Truvang were landed at Milfordhaven.

Returned to Port.

New York, June 8.—Among the arrivals today were three Norwegian steamers which on their last outward voyage from this country were unsuccessful in landing their cargoes at their port of destination owing to seizure by British authorities. They were the Navigator from Genoa, the Kim from Shields and the Magdalena from Manchester. The Navigator from New York to Genoa was taken into Gibraltar and her cargo of machinery and copper preserved.

The Kim, bound from New York to Copenhagen, was taken to Falmouth and her cargo of foodstuffs removed. She was detained there for five months. The Magdalena, with cotton from Genoa to Copenhagen, was detained three weeks at Kirkwall and her cargo was seized.

ZINC MINERS WORKING AT INCREASED WAGES

Since Price of Ore Has Increased Materially, Mine Owners Grant Increase.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Joplin, Mo., June 8.—Practically every zinc mine is working full force today and fear of a strike of miners disappeared. Nearly all of the companies in this district announced increases in wages. The unusual price of ore which sold here last week at $110 a ton, caused the workers to demand more pay.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Marathon, Texas, June 8.—Leo Burdette, a Texas ranger, was shot and killed near Fagnolia, Texas, last night in a pistol fight with three Mexicans, whom he seriously wounded. Two of the Mexicans are expected to die. The third was being pursued by a posse today. Burdette, whose home is in Austin, was trying to arrest the men.

From Luxury To Necessity

A few years ago the automobile was a high priced luxury. Today it is almost a necessity.

For the heavy work it is supplanting the horse. For quick travel it is the supreme. The automobile has a distinct service to render, but it would have never reached its present point of popularity under its own power.

Automobile manufacturers coupled up their product to the vigorous engine of newspaper advertising.

And as always happens the consumer quickly benefited for as the uses of the automobile enlarged its cost decreased.

SPORTS

BOXING MEASURES FAIL TO PASS IN TWO LEGISLATURES

Game Is Knocked Hard In Several States Because of Accidents to Preliminary Boxers. Notes
of Squared Circle.
(By Strikes.)

The grand old game of flatfists is growing and growing under the recent series of attacks made against boxing in the legislatures of several commonwealths, where bills for legalizing the game were put to a short and untimely death by decisive votes.

Knockout wallop to boxing have been administered in the states of Illinois and Michigan and renewed attacks against the sport is threatening to further put the glove game
of the map in Louisiana, Minnesota
and several eastern states. In Michigan, the governor counted ten on the boxing bill when he vetoed a measure permitting the sport under the supervision of a commission. In Illinois, the governor vetoed the legislature put the bill on the bill when it came to a second vote. Now there is a half-hearted
effort to push through a duplicate bill,
but all indications point that it will be shelved into a cubby hole of the committee—there to die an undisturbed death.

The biggest blow is the objections
to boxing in Louisiana where a maradonic decision battles are allowed,
about the only place where the United States where real title fights can be scheduled. Recently a second rate preliminary fighter died from the results of a blow in New Orleans, and around the sports of the game
got busy. Their agitation may result in the bill being placed in the southern state within a few months.

Accidents a Set Back.
Unexpected accidents and deaths to preliminary boxers have caused the death of the most of the commission
boxing bills, for it was conceded that a measure stood a good chance in several states but for the unfortunate accidents. In Minnesota, a fatal injury to a principal in a "barn fight," not under the supervision of the commission, furnished fresh fuel against ring
activities in this state, where the boxing bill was passed by a close vote.

Boxing in the states is at its usual
ebb, due to the lack of interesting matches, while in Australia the sport is booming. The turn of the Antipodean game is beginning to attract many of the leading American fighters as the Australian promoters
are offering liberal contracts for them.
Eddie McGeary, the Oshkosh candidate for middleweight honors, is already there and is followed by Fighting Billy Murray, Red Watson, the sturdy lightweight, Billy Kramer, the welterweight champion of the state. Others are expected to go and it is possible that Mike Gibbons may yield to the call of gold of Snowy Baker, the chief Australian promoter for a title fight with Jimmy Clabby at Sydney. At present, Mike is having no trouble in keeping busy in the east, where he is booked for several minor engagements.

Welsh May Fight.
The proposed lightweight championship battle between Freddie Welsh
and Charlie White for Denver on July 5th is practically certain of going through, according to reports. White is willing to let the Briton for an exceeding small end of the purse in order to obtain a real chance at the crown. White claims to have whipped three champions in his career and is well without the title to his credit.
Welsh has been cornered down and it is hoped that the Denver backers will be able to draw the champ into a battle for a reasonable price, for it is true that Welsh defended his championship in a twenty-round decision match.

Willie Ritchie has declared his intention of defending his title as American champion and will desert the stage for the time being. Ritchie has asked for a battle with Milwaukee on July against any that Promoter Andrews could pick, with kind regards to White, Welsh, Duffy or Johnny Dun-die.

Not Fair Play.
The action of White in refusing to fight Duffy at Buffalo, N. Y., the last of May because the Lockport idol was several pounds overweight, has not increased his popularity. It was remembered by many of the fans that Welsh weighed around 145 pounds
when he fought White the first time
in Milwaukee and the Chicago He-row was down the legitimate limit.

Much interest is centered in the scheduled match between the march
Friday night between Eddie Conlon
and Johnny Ertel Friday night at New Orleans. Ertel is picked for the next fight and will meet a veteran in Conlon, who will give him a severe test
should demonstrate the true worth of the St. Paul "kewpie." Around Wisconsin, Ertel is considered unbeatable, but what his showing will be down in New Orleans where he is unknown and against class ring men is a question.

Kelly as Champ.
Jack Kelly, the heavyweight who fought Jack MacMahon in this city,
comes to bat with a heralded statement from Beloit how he could whip
Champion Jess Willard inside of ten rounds—if given the chance. It appears that Kelly trains with the new champion down in Texas and had handed a few of Willard's training
jabs and thereupon gathered the opinion he was master of the Kansas cowboy. After watching Kelly battle, his sounds extremely noisy. As for Kelly
being championship calibre—such allegations are a joke.

RED FABER, SOX STAR REJECTED BY SCOUTS

Urban Clarence (Red) Faber, the White Sox hurling expert, fought his way into the big show over as many barriers as any bushier ever encountered on the route. Faber was up once with Pittsburgh and was turned back by Fred Clarke. He pitched for Frank Isbell in the Western league for three seasons and then went back to the majors after having been tagged N. G.

But for Comiskey's friend-ship for Isbell, the tiliant-topped heaver would still be drawing his pay in Class A, the master of the Sox accepting him under protest at the tag end of the 1913 season because his old world's series star insisted on the transfer. Jack Doyle, Chi-ago scout, had reported Faber wouldn't do, and the sale was considered as an option contin-ued until his making good by May, 1914. He made good.

KAKUSKE WINS SHUT-OUT GAME AGAINST BELOIT

The Jansville Stars played an er-rorless game Sunday at Beloit, win-ning the first game of a series, 5 to 0. Kakuske pitched excellent ball and with the stellar support of his team-mates, determined the winner of the game. The first innings of the game were tight ball. Lynch, the twirler for the Collie Hill Eagles, had the Jansville boys swinging at the ball, and before the game had ended had 14 strike-outs to his credit.

In the sixth inning the Stars had a man on third and on second when Joe Jackson came to bat and hit a two-bagger, scoring both men. The Stars scored once in the eighth and twice in the ninth, winning the game 5 to 0. The lineup for the Stars was as follows: Spohn, c; Kakuske, p; Jackson, ss; Miller, 1b; Marshall, 2b; McGinley, 3b; Rohrer, 1f; Viney, cf; Fullerton and Hoveland, rf.

The Stars are planning to play a game with a Madison team for next Sunday.

MORAN'S PHILLIES CLING NEAR TOP

Showing of Team Is Causing Much Worry Among the Managers of the National Circuit.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, June 8.—The dogged persistence with which Pat Moran's Phillies cling around the top of the National league is beginning to cause much worry in various other camps in President. Tenor's circuit. When the Quakertown crew got away in a mad rush at the opening of the season most of the "wise" ones laughed. "Just a flash," they said. "They won't stay up there long."

The flash, however, hasn't shown many healthy signs of sputtering out. The Cubs spurred by them once in May for a short time, but Moran's men battered their way back again. The Cubs, by the way, on their first eastern invasion, cleaned up every-where but at Philadelphia. The Phil-lies turned them back neatly in their efforts to dislodge the league leaders.

Fans are now giving the Quaker-town crew a closer inspection than they have heretofore this season. Even yet the Phillies are not regard-ed seriously as pennant contenders. Few think that they have the stamina that will be required when the race gets hot in mid-summer. Charles Eb-betts, owner of the Dodgers, who are threatening the leaders this year, was quoted as saying that New York and Boston were the only teams his club had to beat out for the pennant. Roger Bresnahan, pilot of the Cubs, picked the same two as the ones he feared. Neither of these pilots took each other or the Phillies into consideration. As yet neither the Giants or the Braves have got going.

The great brand of hurling that his club has been blessed with is the big-gest factor in Moran's success. Grover Cleveland Alexander, sometimes known as Alexander the Great, has been exhibiting the best brand of twirling seen in either league this season. Always a great pitcher, he has had new offense and he has chalked up many victories.

Alexander hasn't been the only win-ning pitcher, however. Mayer has been traveling along at a clip, only slightly slower. Chalmers, turned back by the Giants after the training season, has been going great guns. Al Demaree, the cartoonist-finger, shows signs of repeating his good work with the Giants two years ago.

The Phillies' infield is well balanc-ed. Luderus at first and Bobby Byrne, ex-Pirate at third, are playing bang-up ball and steadying the two young-er players on the infield. Bert Nei-hoff at second, has been playing ball a long time, but has had little major league experience. This year he is rated high. Bancroft, at short, is play-ing sensational ball.

Dode Paskert, Beals Becker and Gabby Cravath form the regular outer garden. All are slugging the ball. Cravath's home runs are almost a daily feature.

GEORGE BERGER PITCHED NO-HIT GAME ON SUNDAY

Sunday morning the Roessing Broth-ers' baseball team defeated the Union Delivery System nine by the score of 4 to 0. George Berger, on the mound for the Roessing store, pitched a no-hit game, according to reports, which is the third game of this kind to be pitched in Jansville within recent years. Besides Berger's skilled heav-ying, the batting of Jean Roessing in getting four hits out of five trips to the plate with his war-club, featured the game. The game was played on the new diamond in Spring Brook and was witnessed by about 250 people.

The Roessing team is open to meet all comers and Charles Bier is manag-ing the nine. The line-up of the Roess-ing nine is as follows: Bier, c; Ber-ger, p; E. J. Roessing, ss; C. A. Roess-ing, 1b; Bass, 2b; Spohn, 3b; Prox, Shook and Serbert, fielders.

RED SOX STOP FABER'S LONG STRING OF VICTORIES

Boston, Mass., June 8.—The Red Sox put a period to Faber's string of victories, shutting out Chicago 3 to 0 Monday. As a result, the White Sox dropped to second place in the league standing. It was a pitcher's duel be-tween Wood and Faber.

A base on balls, an error by Weaver and Thomas' hit, which Quinn's misjudgment allowed to go for a triple, counted twice for Boston in the fifth. Chicago filled the bases in the third when Wood fanned Breton for the third out.

The game was remarkably fast. Bobby Wallace, former shortstop for St. Louis, made his first appearance as an umpire.

Sport Snap Shots MORRIS MILLER

No wonder that Neyland and other army pitchers have been winning their games this year! The Soldiers have led every college team in bat-ting, having a remarkable team behind him. Any pitcher that has behind him a team capable of batting for an average of that kind could hardly help but win his games. In-cidentally the next highest average was that of the Navy—288.

It develops that Jim Coffey broke a bone in his right hand and injured his left hand in his recent bout with Jim Flynn in New York, and as a result will have to take a long rest from the ring. Thus Coffey is forced to pass up $20,000 in bouts which his manager had arranged.

Billy Reidy, former pitcher for the Brooklyn Nationals and the St. Louis Americans, and later player and manager in the Coast league, is re-ported as near death and in need at his home in Cleveland. Friends have attempted to interest players who once knew Reidy in a plan to raise a fund to send him to a hospital where he may be comfortable until the end comes.

SMILES like a basket of chips
since he started using the Real Tobacco Chew. Fact is, men
take to the little chew that satis-
fies like a duck takes to water
—and how they talk about its goodness to each other.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned
and sweetened, just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS!!
W-D CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies,
how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.
The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

"Notice how the salt brings
out the rich tobacco taste."

INTERESTING HISTORY.

According to the story told of the last forces of an armed enemy in what is now Wisconsin in the Wisconsin
Historical Collection, Volume XIII, it was one hundred years ago, in the spring of 1815, the last foreign foe
that has been on Wisconsin soil beat a retreat out of the state. It was the troubled period of the war of 1812.
The British, aided by a large band of Indians, had captured the important
post of Prairie du Chien in the summer of 1814. When peace was declared at Ghent, however, a few months later all of the captured Northwestern posts were returned to the United States. The intelligence of the signing of the treaty did not penetrate to far-away Wisconsin until late in May, 1815, having been five months on the way. It placed the British commander at Prairie du Chien in an embarrassing position. He had made the usual sweeping promises to his Indian allies to induce them to take up arms, which he must now
ignore, abandoning them to the mercy of the enraged Americans. It was not unlikely that in their disappointment
they would rise up against their former friends and massacre them. Under these conditions the British commander, without awaiting the arrival of the American soldiers, to whom he was to surrender the post, hastily hailed down his flag, and retreated to Canada. Up the Wisconsin river to Portage, thence across to the Fox, and via Green Bay to Mackinac he hurried, ever fearful lest the savages be at his heels.

THE 25,000 CLUB.

At the annual meeting of the 25,000
club, held last evening at the city hall,
it was decided to continue the life of the organization. The club was readjusted of business conditions in the country as a whole before taking any definite steps towards securing new factories for Janesville. This club has its origin some two years ago and numbers among its members
several hundred citizens, both men and women, whose object is to promote the best interests of the city.
The terms of eight of the directors
having expired under the charter,
now board was elected and they will meet in a few days to name officers for the ensuing year. With the 25,000
club, the Commercial club and the general spirit of harmony and boosting that is demonstrated throughout the whole city it is expected that much can be accomplished in the next few years that will be of great benefit to the city as a whole. It is a work in which every individual can take part and play an important role
thus boosting the home city, and present indications are that this is the purpose of continuing the present organization.

THE Y. M. C. A.

The new directors of the Young Men's Christian Association are planning for a strenuous campaign to gather in new members. This action is one of the essentials of the club life and can be made the center
of the activity for the general betterment of all concerned. The directors are starting on the right course and should meet with ready response and
the list of members should be increased materially before the first of September. The plans decided upon for the coming year have not as yet been completed, but it is safe to assure the general public that the rejuvenated association means business
and the men behind the movement are
as much in earnest as men can be,
and ask the support of the citizens generally. It is not a charitable organization for they give value received for the membership fee and by becoming a supporting member each individual is doing his part. It is one of the solutions of the problem of what can the young man do and this problem can be solved by purchasing
an association membership for him
where he will have the proper environments and clean, healthy amusement and exercise.

BRYAN'S FINGER.

Bryan—the great pacifist—wants to put his finger into the diplomatic and be something more than Wilson's rubber stamp when it comes to sending a reply to Germany. He does not consider it sufficient honor to have his name signed to the state paper of the calibre that Wilson draws up, but wants to draw one all his own and send it as his own product. In plain words, Bryan wants to be the MAIN
of the administration and to dominate the will of the president. If we may believe the tales, it was Bryan, not Wilson, who suggested the "watchful, Sherer.

waiting policy" that has left Mexico
in such a pitiable condition. It is infinitely unfortunate that in this, our hour of need, we have not men big enough in the president's cabinet to stand firmly behind him and permit
his judgment to sway the national policy of this country without injecting petty and insignificant policies
into papers which are fought with so much importance as is this reply
to Germany at this critical time.

THE ENGLISH PRESS.

The English press expresses the views of the average Englishman on the sinking of the Lusitania and the consequent results as piracy. In this they follow the lead of one of our former presidents who called it by a similar name. However, the London observer, one of the oldest of the weekly
papers published in the United Kingdom, published recently:

"No one is possible advantage
which can accrue to the Germans
from their piracy campaign is the cutting off of our supplies of food and raw material. Their purpose would really be far better served by the destruction of twenty tramp steamers laden with wheat, cotton, iron ore and so forth than by the destruction of one Lusitania of the same aggregate tonnage. The sacrifice of the lives of seven hundred non-combatants, British and neutral, has brought them no
military advantage whatever, and it is impossible to estimate the number of chances which they missed during the week or fortnight when they were preparing for the Lusitania coup. This fact must, one would suppose, have been present to the mind of Admiral von Tirpitz. He can only conclude that the Germans estimated the moral effect to be produced by the sinking of a world-famous ship like the Lusitania
to be of greater value than the material inconvenience which the destruction of cargo steamers was likely to cause. It is not evident that they have succeeded in producing any moral effect at all, except by rousing
the righteous wrath of the world
against themselves and sending men
to the colours in several numbers.
The sailing of the Mauretania is cancelled for lack of passengers; otherwise the Transatlantic traffic goes on as usual. The ships which above all others the Germans would give their ears to catch have so far maintained
their complete immunity from damage. Best of all, the admiralty have refused utterly to listen to those who would have them disturb their plans
in order to provide escort for ships
making for or leaving our western ports. Now that we have had time to look it in the face, we see that the criminal tragedy of the Lusitania involves no new menace to our position
at all."

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Governor Phillip has announced he will send a message to the legislature
on Wednesday that will deal with questions that are now being considered and which he considers vital to the state as a whole. The governor's messages are much to the point and deserve the careful attention of the law-makers at Madison, and it is to be trusted that it will receive due consideration.

The man who predicted war a year ago this time when all Europe seemed
at peace, would have been laughed at,
but even then the preparations were under way and this talk of Germany
having been forced into the struggle
is laughable in view of the facts that are now clearly demonstrated of its preparation to invade Belgium on a pretext excuse of expedience to reach France.

Speaking about having an adequate army and navy for defense, and as an insurance against war, the time you need to provide yourself with an umbrella is when it looks like a shower
—not when it starts raining.

Much valuable time and space would be saved if we could learn what Mexico does not need instead of what the poor, unfortunate people do actually need.

Switzerland enjoys the distinction
of being the world's most rigid example of uprightness as well as being a stand-patter.

May had its rains, but June has its floods. What will July offer? Thunderstorms and deluges, perhaps.

Seed Catalogs.
Tell me not of mournful numbers
They are, but an empty dream—
Those seed catalogs I'm getting.
And are not just what they seem.

I have spent my hard earned money,
Tightly to the seeds I've clung,
As I've lugged them often home—
ward,
Just to find that I'd been stung.

Perseverance is a virtue.
Or at least, that's what they say.
If I live long enough perhaps I'll
Raise some garden seeds some day.

Ouch!
There was a young lady named Astor,
Whose skirt fit her like a plaster,
And she happened to sneeze
And she knew that she'd met with

A Difference.
"Lost your leading woman, eh?"
"Uh-huh."
"Didn't take sick?"
"Nope. Didn't take well."

We Aim to Oblige.
In our morning mail we found a letter from a fond parent reading as follows: "My young son wants to enter a journalistic career. Can you suggest any sure cure? About the only sure cure we know of is Paris Green."

They Do, Occasionally.
We have considerable faith in fortunes tellers. We went to one a long time ago and she shuffled the paste-
board and said: "You will be poor
until you are thirty and then you will be used to it." She told the truth.

To make a pleasant neighborhood
in which to live, take the following
ingredients and mix them thoroughly:
Five goats.
Three horseless pianos.
Four young women who take vocal lessons.
Nine phonographs.
Six bulldogs.
Seven squeaky lawnmowers.
Young man who practices on corn-
net.
Seven gossiping women.

At the Spring Wedding.
You ask me why I'm sighin'?
Well—I'll tell you—listen here:
To see me almost cryin'—
At a wedding's sort of queer.
But what's the use of smilin'?

When the smile ain't in yer heart,
A worried thought comes pillin'
That two good pals must part?
Oh, yes, she'll always love me,
But while she won't be to blame,
She won't be thinkin' of me
As she did, 'twon't be the same.

You ask me why I'm sighin'?
Well, here's why I'm feelin' bad,
It's silly—no denyin'—
But I'm Mary's old fool dad.

Ever Think of This?
The average man climbs to success
while his wife holds the ladder. If he gets there, she is apt to be left behind; if he takes a tumble, she is there to take the blame.

FRITZI SCHEFF IN
PRETTY MRS. SMITH

Musical Comedy Star Delights Large
Photoplay Audience at the Apollo.

Fritzi Scheff, the internationally
famous French prima donna and musical comedy star, was a real "event"
in the photoplay production of "Pretty Mrs. Smith" at the Apollo yesterday.

Crowds came to view an actress
whom few had been privileged to see
on the stage, and they went away
with tears of mirth in their eyes.
From start to finish the picture was
full of bright, rippling humor over
the escapades of Pretty Mrs. Smith,
whom we saw a time with her three
husbands, all named Smith, and over
the efforts of her friend, Letitia
Frodoft to keep in leash her own
"little half-porcion."

Nothing was left wanting in the support of Miss Scheff, from the standpoint of beautiful scenes and
settings and by a capable cast, among
whom was Owen Moore, the third Mr.
Smith who finally became the most
fortunate one. Such stars as Fritzi
Scheff are raising the standard of Paramount pictures to the highest
pinnacle of public favor.

EMERALD GROVE
Emerald Grove, June 7.—Rev. Fred Dahlberg, the new pastor, preached
last Sunday morning and evening.
Services will be held next Sunday as usual and Children's day exercises in the evening at eight o'clock. Parents wishing to have their children Christened will kindly bring them to the morning services. Beginning Sunday, June 20, the Christian Endeavor society will start holding meetings at 7:30 p. m. This will be the only evening service and we hope to make it a popular one and we invite everyone to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Jake Hanson motored
to Watertown last Saturday.
Mrs. C. D. Pich and Mrs. J. A.
Jones will entertain the Ladies'
Auxiliary Thursday afternoon of this week at the home of the latter.

The Ladies' Aid society will serve
ice cream at the church parlors Saturday. The children will practice for Children's day in the afternoon and they will sing to the who wish it.
Rose Pich is visiting relatives in

A MISTAKE MADE BY MANY
Don't wait for rheumatism to indicate diseased kidneys. When you suffer pains and aches by day and sleep
disturbing bladder weakness, night
fever, nervous and run down, the kidneys and bladder should be restored to healthy, strong and regular action. It is a mistake to postpone treatment. Foley Kidney Pills put the kidneys in sound, healthy condition and keep them active and strong. Begin taking today. Good results fol-

FRITZI SCHEFF IN
PRETTY MRS. SMITH

Musical Comedy Star Delights Large
Photoplay Audience at the Apollo.

Fritzi Scheff, the internationally
famous French prima donna and musical comedy star, was a real "event"
in the photoplay production of "Pretty Mrs. Smith" at the Apollo yester-
day.

Crowds came to view an actress
whom few had been privileged to see
on the stage, and they went away
with tears of mirth in their eyes.
From start to finish the picture was
full of bright, rippling humor over
the escapades of Pretty Mrs. Smith,
whom we saw a time with her three
husbands, all named Smith, and over
the efforts of her friend, Letitia
Frodoft to keep in leash her own
"little half-porcion."

Nothing was left wanting in the
support of Miss Scheff, from the
standpoint of beautiful scenes and
settings and by a capable cast, among
whom was Owen Moore, the third Mr.
Smith who finally became the most
fortunate one. Such stars as Fritzi
Scheff are raising the standard of Paramount pictures to the highest
pinnacle of public favor.

WOMAN'S PAGE

SIDE TALKS

By RUTH CAMERON

DO ANIMALS TALK?

The round-the-bra clan which has as usual become metamorphosed into the summer-evening-veranda clan, found itself registering its opinions on that subject the other evening.

Animals know what they don't. The cynic wants to know why they shouldn't. The lady-who-always-knows-something thinks they do. Words Not Necessary to Think With. Personally I'm inclined to agree with Molly. Animals may not have any definite set of symbols any fixed language, but in some way or other they are able to communicate. Language, though, is not necessary in order to think. Don't you realize that although there is a top layer of your mind in which you think in words there is an underneath layer in which you think without putting your thoughts into words at all? I suppose that's the layer of mind from which we communicate with that substratum I believe telepathy will become a much more important factor than it is today.

A Nose to Nose Telepathy. Now I imagine that animals communicate by a kind of nose to nose telepathy. Once upon a time I had a dog who used to run away. One day I shut him up in a disused hen yard. Now this dog (like Charles Kingsley), had a friend, and the friend came promptly to his aid, and after a nose to nose conference, Duke began to tunnel his prison from the inside while Mr. Pipp assisted from the outside. The ground was hard and it was slow work, nevertheless I was surprised to see Mr. Pipp give it up and go away. He was a devoted friend. Presently, however, he rebuked my willingness to believe him unfaithful by coming back with three other dogs who flew at the task with energy and soon gave Duke his liberty. Now how did Mr. Pipp and Duke decide what was to be done and how did Mr. Pipp get aid from the other dogs, if they didn't communicate with each other?

What Did the Big Dog Tell the Puppy? Again, as I sat by the window the other day I saw my latest acquisition standing with his nose against the nose of our neighbor's dog. They stood there for a full moment, both noses quivering mightily, and then my small puppy dropped his tail and hustled home. Now how did that bigger dog hadn't been rebuking my puppy for some of his misdeeds (such as meddling with his neighbor's bones) and told him to go home?

Perhaps you have had some similar experience, reader friend. Share it with us. Someone said the other day that it seemed as if all the discoveries and inventions must have been made. Surely there is a broad field of knowledge untouched. Do animals communicate and how, can different species understand each other or are there different languages for each species as there is for different races of man? I am a believer that animals know more than we realize and I hope some day that we can come to understand them better and perhaps even know something about their language.

can have experiences alone; we drag those we love into all our joys and sorrows.

"Don't be instructive, Nell. I can't manage two teachers at once. At present I am learning from experience. Well, I must go and pack my trunk."

"Oh, must you go?" There was real trouble in Nell's voice.

"I've been here over a month now. It needed a jolt to jar me home, I guess." She gave Nell a flying kiss and raced up the stairs.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING. Do the laundry in the morning, and the thing before putting in pans, and the cake will not spoil.

Cleaning the Food Chopper—After a food chopper has been used for some time the knives will become dull, both in color and in cutting power. When this happens, take a piece of scouring soap and pass it through the chopper; grind it up as you would an article of food. The knives will become bright and sharp, and the powdered soap may be used again.

Mending a Basket—If your market basket or clothes basket of willow shows a few loose ends, put it to soak for twenty minutes or half an hour in lukewarm water. A good way to do this is to put the basket into the bathtub, resting it on the mat that is to be repaired, then turn in enough water to soak this part. The important thing is to get the willow ends soft and pliable. When this is accomplished the string can be reinserted into the basket, and if you push them in firmly they will stay in place when dry. Never try to bend the willow string while they are dry, as they will be sure to snap off.

To Clean White Kid Gloves—Make a thick paste of flour and gasoline, cover gloves, let dry, brush off with a small brush and hang out in the sun for several hours.

KEEPS ASPARAGUS WHOLE. Every housekeeper knows how difficult it is to cook asparagus and keep the stalks whole. Here is a cooker that will answer the purpose and is easily made at home.

If you have an egg poacher take the perforated piece of tin that holds the egg cups. This has four to six round holes. Fit this in a granite kettle and fill with water. Put the asparagus, cut off the tough ends and stand in the kettle with the tips through the holes in the tin. Fill the kettle with water up to the tin. Cover closely and let steam for ten minutes. The steam will usually cook the tops tender. If it does not, add enough boiling water to cover during the last five minutes of cooking. Drain, and use in any desired way. Use the water for cream of asparagus, or add to vegetable soup or stew.

THE TABLE. "Ma Perry"—Half pound bacon, one onion top small, three eggs, one cup rice (boiled), one cup chopped chicken, veal or roast pork (other meat does not taste so good). Mix with brown gravy and boil ten minutes, then put in pan and bake half hour.

John Mousette—This is a delicious, wholesome dish and makes a good meal. Boil five boxes spaghetti in salt water and drained. Mix all together, put in baking dish with grated cheese on top. Bake half hour. Coconut-Orange Dessert. Butter mold, sprinkle bottom and sides with fresh grated coconut, crumble a stale sponge or cup cake. Fill mold almost to top with alternate layers of cake, coconut and orange pulp or orange. Beat well, three eggs, one pint sugar. Pour slowly over mixture in mold, steam forty-five minutes. Garnish with whipped cream, coconut and oranges.

Strawberry Combination—Select six large, ripe bananas; split one side open and carefully remove pulp, mash to a cream, measure and add half as many strawberries sliced fine.

STILL TEARING-UP PARIS CONSTRUCTING SUBWAY NETWORK.

Paris, June 8.—Paris is not likely even in wartime, to lose its reputation of being the most continually upturned town in Europe. The construction of its network of subways and the incidental rearrangement of sewers and other underground work is still going on, simultaneously with the reconstruction of the city. The new street, the "Boulevard des Nouveautes," is now being constructed. The old "Boulevard des Capucines" has been more or less completely obliterated and the new boulevard is being laid out. CEMENT FOR FLOOR.

A first-class cement for filling cracks in old floors can be made by mixing one part of plaster of paris with yellow ochre or a dry earth paint at about three cents a pound, and mixed with flour paste or starch to the consistency of soft putty.

MUTILATED SOLDIERS LEARNING NEW TRADES.

Paris, June 8.—About a hundred mutilated soldiers have begun learning new trades at the special school organized for them at Charenton-lez-Paris. They include former coal-miners, masons, dyers, cooks, plumbers, farriers, painters, plasterers, butchers, and carmen.

DELAWARE RIVER YARDS RUSHED ON SHIP BUILDING.

Philadelphia, June 8.—Never before has the history of the United States been so vividly pictured in the Delaware river experience. A rush of orders, indicative of the wave of activity that is sweeping over the entire country, has resulted in the Delaware river shipyards working at full capacity and according to reports several large corporations are preparing to place orders for more vessels.

MARYLAND BELLE WEDS A NAVY MAN.

The Harland & Hollingsworth company of Wilmington has two contracts for the building of a battleship and a cruiser. The battleship is to be built at the Harland & Hollingsworth company's yard in Wilmington, and the cruiser is to be built at the Harland & Hollingsworth company's yard in Wilmington.

trasts for tank steamships for the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum company and the Mexican Oil company. These tankers are the first orders for merchant vessels ever awarded an American shipyard by foreign owners. In addition to these big contracts small, along the Delaware river, is minor work, such as barges, lighters, ferries, pleasure craft and floats. Shipping men predict that aside from the fact this year's output will be almost tripled, the Delaware river plants will lead all other ship building centers throughout the world in the future.

ASSISTANT POSTMASTERS CONVEINE IN WATERTOWN FOR TWO DAY MEETING.

Watertown, Wis., June 8.—The men and women who know more about the actual postal conditions and affairs than the postmaster general—the assistant postmasters—met here today. It was the seventh annual convention of the Wisconsin association of Assistant Postmasters. The sessions will be held on the third floor of the federal building and will end tomorrow.

RECEIVE COLLECTIONS FOR NEW LIBRARY AT LOUVAIN UNIVERSITY.

Manchester, England, June 8.—When the devastated cities and towns of Belgium rise again, one of the first tasks to be undertaken will be the reconstruction of the library of the University of Louvain. A nucleus of the organization and funds necessary for this purpose has just been established here by the John Rylands Library, a wealthy foundation established many years ago by the millionaire Manchester cotton manufacturer.

WORK OF ROCKEFELLER COMMISSION IN THE RELIEF OF FLOOD.

Warsaw, June 8.—The work of the Rockefeller commission in the relief of flood, capital of the government of Poland, is described by a resident who escaped the vigilance of German patrols and escaped to this city. He said that until the arrival of the Rockefeller commission, there was no relief for the flood victims. The Rockefeller commission has been working for several days, and has been successful in securing the release of many prisoners. Glimpses of Married Life

By MRS. E. L. LEONARD

"Well, I think the perturbed spirit of Mrs. Ellison is calm at last," said Olive one dull autumn day, as she came in with the mail. "It's ten days since I started late by going with you to the doctor's auto. I have been looking for a son in law for some time, and I have been making every effort for five days."

"Hope deferred maketh the heart sick," laughed Nell, but do not be discouraged, slow but you are sure to hear from her in some way. I've had a rather intimate acquaintance with her."

There was no reply. Olive had been reading a letter from home and was busy with her feet, her whole face ablaze with anger.

"I wish I had her here," she exclaimed.

Now it is a well-accepted truism that an exasperated sense of duty, like remorse and grief, fights best in the night watches. It was of no avail to protest that her intention was still unshaken. Conscience urged that delay was little less culpable than refusal, since every hour gave the criminal an added chance of escape. The minutes dragged leaden-winged, and to sit quietly in the silence and solitude of the great saloon became a nerve-racking impossibility. When it went past endurance, she rose and stepped out upon the promenade deck.

The Belle Julie was approaching a landing. The electric searchlight eye on the hurricane deck was just over her head, and its great white cone seemed to him as it poured its dazzling flood of fictitious noonday upon the shelving river bank and the sleeping hamlet beyond. Out of the dusky undergrowth came the freight carriers, giving birth to a file of grotesque shadow monsters as they swung up the plank into the field of the searchlight. The foot plank had been drawn in, the steam winch was clattering, and the landing stage had begun to come aboard, when the two men whose duty it was to cast off ran out on the tilting stage and dropped from its shore end. One of them fell clumsily, tried to rise, and sank back into the shadow; but the other scrambled up the steep bank and loosened the half-hitches in the wet hawser. With the slackening of the line the steamer began to move out into the stream, and the man at the mooring post looked around to see what had become of his companion.

"Get a move on youse!" bellowed the mate; but instead of obeying, the man ran back and went on his knees beside the huddled figure in the shadow. At this point the watcher on the promenade deck began vaguely to understand that the first man was disabled in some way, and that the other was trying to lift him. While she looked, the engine-room bells jangled and the wheels began to turn. The mate forgot her and swore out of a full heart.

She put her fingers in her ears to shut out the clamor of abusive profanity; but the man on the bank paid no attention to the richly emphasized command to come aboard. Instead, he ran swiftly to the mooring post, took a double turn of the trailing hawser around it and stood by until the straining line snubbed the steamer's bow to the shore. Then, deftly casting off again, he darted back to the disabled man, hoisted him bodily to the high guard, and clambered aboard himself; all this, while McGrath was brushing the impeding crew aside to get at him. Charlotte saw every move of the quick-witted salvage in the doing, and wanted to cry out in sheer enthusiasm when it was done. Then, in the light from the furnace doors, she saw the face of the chief actor; it was the face of the man with the stubble beard.

She could not hear what McGrath was saying, but she could read the wrath in his gestures, and in the way the men fell back out of his reach. All but one: the stubble-bearded white man was facing him fearlessly, and he appeared to be trying to explain.

Griswold was trying to explain, but the bullying first officer would not let him. It was a small matter; with the money gone, and the probability that capture and arrest were deferred only from landing to landing, a little abuse, more or less, counted as nothing. But he was grimly determined to keep McGrath from laying violent hands upon the negro, who had twisted his ankle in jumping from the upturned landing-stage.

"No; this is one time when you don't skin anybody alive!" he retorted, when a break in the stream of abuse gave him a chance. "You let the man alone. He couldn't help it. Do you suppose he sprained an ankle purposefully to give you a chance to curse him out?"

The mate's reply was a brutal kick at the crippled negro. Griswold came closer.

"Don't try that again!" he warned, angrily. "If you've got to take it out on somebody, I'm your man."

This was mutiny, and McGrath's remedy for that distemper was ever heroic. In a flash his big fist shot out and the crew looked to see its lighter champion go backward into the river at the impact. But the blow did not land. Griswold saw it coming and averted the necessary body-breadth. The result was a demonstration of a simple theorem in dynamics. McGrath reeled under the impetus of his own unresisted effort, stumbled forward against the low edge-line bulwark, clawed wildly at the fleckle air and dropped overboard like a stone.

The Belle Julie was forging ahead at full speed. Clearing the intervening obstacles in a hurler's leap, Griswold raced aft on the outer edge of the guards and jumped overboard in time to grapple the drowning man when he was within a few feet of the churning wheel. The mate was terror-stricken and fought blindly. There was no time for trick or stratagem, and when the thunder of the wheel roared overhead, Griswold felt the jar of a blow and the mate's struggles ceased abruptly. A gasping moment later the worst was over and the rescuer had his head out; was swimming gallantly in the wake of the steamer, supporting the unconscious McGrath and shouting lustily for help.

The help came quickly. The alarm had been promptly given, and the night pilot was a man for an emergency. Before the little-used yawl could be lowered, the steamer had swept a wide circle in mid stream and the searchlight picked up the castaways. From that to placing the Belle Julie so that the two bits of human flotilla could be hauled in over the bows was but a skillful hand's turn of rudder-work, accomplished as cleverly as if the great steamboat had been a power-driven launch to be steered by a touch of the tiller.

All this Charlotte saw. She was looking on when the two men were dragged aboard, the big Irishman still unconscious, and the rescuer in the final ditch of exhaustion—breathless, sodden, reeling with weariness. And afterward, when the Belle Julie's prow was once more turned to the north, Miss Farnham flew back to her stateroom with the letter to Mr. Galbraith hidden in her bosom and clutched tightly as if she were afraid it might cry out its accusing secret of its own accord.

CHAPTER VI.

On the morning following the rescue of the mate, Charlotte Farnham awoke with the conviction that she had been miraculously saved from incurring the penalties dealt out to those who rush blindly into the thick of things without due thought and careful consideration.

But the Puritan conscience was not to be entirely silenced. Reason sits in a higher seat than that occupied by the senses, and reason argued that a man who would forgive his enemy, and instantly risk his life in proof of the forgiveness, could not be a desperate criminal. Conscience pointed out the alternative. A little careful investigation would remove the doubt—or confirm it. Somebody on the boat must know the deckhand, or know enough about him to establish his real identity.

Charlotte worried over the wretched entanglement all day, and was so distraught and absent-minded that her aunt remarked it, naming it malaria and prescribing quinine. Whereat Charlotte dissembled and put on a mask of cheerfulness, keeping it on until after the evening meal and her aunt's early retiring. But when she was released she was glad enough to go out on the promenade just forward of the starboard paddle-box, where there were no after-dinner loungers, to be alone with her problem and free to plunge once more into its intricacies.

It was possibly ten minutes later, while she stood leaning against a stanchion and watching the lights of a distant town rise out of the watery horizon ahead, that chance, the final arbiter in so many human involvements, led her quickly into the valley of decision. She heard a man's step on the steeply pitched stair leading down from the hurricane deck. Before she could turn away he was confronting her; the man whose name on the Belle Julie's crew roster was John Wesley Gavitt.

"Don't Try That Again," He Warned Angrily.

Griswold's appearance was less fortuitous than it seemed to be. As a reward of merit for having saved the mate's life, he had been told off to serve temporarily as man-of-all-work for the day pilot, who chanced to be without a steersman. His watch in the pilothouse was over, and he was on his way to the crew's quarters below when he stumbled upon Miss Farnham. Mindful of his earlier slip, he passed her as if she had been invisible. She let him go until her opportunity was all but lost; then, plucking courage out of the heart of desperation, she spoke.

"One moment, if you please; I want to ask you something," she faltered; and he wheeled obediently and faced her.

Followed a pause, inevitable, but none the less awkward for the one who was responsible. Griswold felt rather than saw, her embarrassment, and was generous enough to try to help her.

"I think I know what you wish to say; you are quite at liberty to say it," he offered, when the pause had grown into an obstacle which she seemed powerless to surmount.

"I thought perhaps—I had hoped—oh, for goodness' sake, why did you do it?" she burst out, no longer able to fence with the weapons of indirectness.

He answered her frankly. "It was the old story of one man's overplenty and another man's need. Have you ever known what it means to go hungry for sheer poverty's sake?—but, of course, you haven't."

"No," she admitted. "Well, I have; I was hungry that morning; very hungry. I know this doesn't excuse the thing—to you. But perhaps it may help to explain it."

"I think I can understand a little. But surely—"

He stopped her with a quick little gesture. "I know what you are going to say—that I should have been willing to work, or even to beg, rather than steal. I was willing to work; I was not willing to beg. I know it is all wrong from your point of view; but I should be sorry to have you think that I did what I believed to be wrong."

"But think of it; if you are right, everyone else must be wrong!"

"No; not quite everyone. But that is a very large question, and we needn't go into it. I confess that my method was unconventional; a little more summary than that of the usurers and the strictly legal robbers, but quite as defensible. For they rob the poor and the helpless, while I merely dispossessed one rich corporation of a portion of its exactions from the many."

"Then you are not sorry? I saw you yesterday afternoon and hoped you were."

He laughed unpleasantly. "I was sorry, then, and I am now; for the same reason; I have lost the money."

"Lost it?" she gasped. "How?"

"I had hidden it, and I suppose someone else has found it. It is all right, so far as the ownership is concerned; but I am still self-centered enough to be chagrined about it."

"But you must have returned it in the end. You could never have been content to keep it."

"Do you think so?" he rejoined. "I think I could have been quite content to keep it. But that is past; it is gone, and I couldn't return it if I wanted to."

"No," she acquiesced; "and that makes it all the harder."

"For you to do what you must do? But you mustn't think of that. I shouldn't have made restitution in any event. Let me tell you what I did. I had a weapon, as you have read. I tied it up with the money in a handkerchief. There was always the chance of their catching me, and I had made up my mind that my last free act would be to drop the bundle into the river. So you see you need not hesitate on that score."

"Then you know what it is that I must do?"

"Assuredly. I knew it yesterday, when I saw that you had recognized me. It was very merciful in you to relieve me, even for a few hours; but you will pardon me if I say it was wrong?"

"Wrong!" she burst out. "Is it generous to say that to me? Are you so indifferent yourself that you think everyone else is indifferent, too?"

He smiled under cover of the darkness.

"I know you are not indifferent; you couldn't be. But you must be true to yourself, at whatever cost. Will you go to Captain Mayfield now?"

She hesitated. "I thought of doing that, at first," she began, postponing to a more convenient season the unenvying reflection that she was actually discussing the ways and means of it with him. "It seemed to be the simplest thing to do. But then I saw what would happen; that I should be obliged—"

Again he stopped her with a gesture.

"I understand. We must guard against that at all hazards. You must not be dragged into it, you know, even remotely."

"I wrote a letter to—Mr. Galbraith," she confessed. "And you have not sent it?"

"No. If I had, I shouldn't have spoken to you."

Dinner Stories

After six months of widowhood, Lizzie consented to enter the state of matrimony again. Shortly after she was led to the altar her former mistress met her on the street. Lizzie

The month of brides. Find a groom.

was dressed in deepest mourning. "Why, Lizzie," exclaimed the other in great surprise, "for whom are you in black?"

"It's for poor Mike, me furst husband," answered Lizzie. "When he died of wuz that poor Oi couldn't, but Oi said if ever Oi could Oi would, an' me new man, Dan, is as generous as a lord, mum!"

In London they tell of an American woman of great beauty and attractiveness who is devoted to the Irish cause!

At a social function one evening she chanced to remark, "Really, I believe I was meant for an Irish woman."

Whereupon a Celt arose to the occasion.

"Pardon me, madam," he said, "a good many would back me in saying that you were meant for an Irishman."

The optimist beamed. "Splendid," he said. "According to the latest returns there are 420,000,000 Christians in the world."

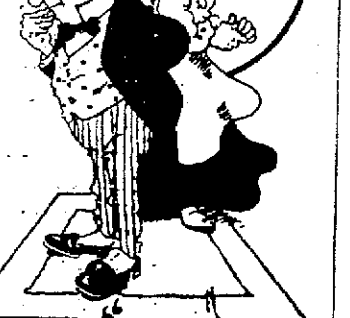

"That may be," said the pessimist, "but when any scandal attaches to your name it is mighty hard to believe it."

A politician who was seeking the votes of a certain community in Ohio to the end that he might be sent to congress thought it worth while to make mention of his humble origin and early struggles.

"I got my start in life by serving in a grocery at $3 a week, and yet I managed to save," he announced.

Whereupon a voice from the audience queried:

"Was that before the invention of cash registers?"

A DIFFERENCE.

Corn-Mad? Use "GETS-IT," It's Sure

Makes Corns Vanish Like Magic!

A hard cap of skin makes up every corn. When you put 2 drops of "GETS-IT" on it, it shrinks up and comes right off—and there's your corn—gone by thunder! Simple as taking off your hat! That's

Don't Waste Time "Hollering." "GETS-IT," World's Simplest Corn-Cure. Never Fails.

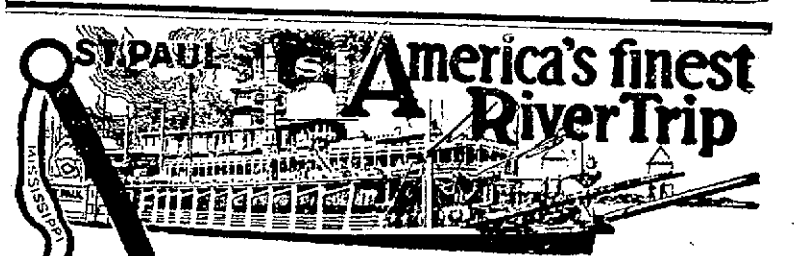

Why corn-millions have gone wild over "GETS-IT"—nothing like it ever known. Some folks, to this day, putter around corn-baiting, salves, poultices, corns out with knives, and then with callipers, make them bleed and then howl because they can't get rid of sore corns. Use "GETS-IT." There's nothing to do but apply 2 drops. The work is done. "GETS-IT" does the rest. No pain, no fussing, no changing shoes, no limping. It never hurts or humors. Be sure that you get "GETS-IT," and nothing else. "GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere. 25 cents a bottle, or sent direct by D. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

New Fishing Grounds. Albacore and tunny, fish which until recently have been found only in the Mediterranean in sufficient quantities to form the basis of an industry, are said now to be caught in enormous quantities along the coast of southern California. At San Pedro a fleet of gasoline launches finds profitable employment during the season in catching these fish for the packers.

Millard, Sunday, to see their sister, Mrs. Grove Weimore, who is ill. The two little children returned home
with them to remain for a few weeks.

About fifty friends took possession
of Robert Lyle's home and gave him
a surprise that he will long remember. A bounteous dinner was served and all report a good time. A beautiful clock was left as a birthday gift.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Carter entertained friends from Janesville, Milton, Whitewater, Johnstown at a Sunday dinner in honor of

The Best Daylight Carpet and Curtain Section In the State.
